This account of the BELDEN ANCESTRY has been written to preserve the early history of the family of Belden in the hope that its members may imitate the examples of their worthy ancestors and make the name of Belden one of respectability worthiness and honor in the future as well as in the past. May there always be Beldens and may each and every one of them leave the world a better place for his or her having lived in it.

THE FAMILY HISTORY

In most family histories considerable difficulty is experienced in tracing back to an ancestor who can be called the first of the name, and in many cases it is absolutely impossible. The first person to call himself "of Baildon" can fortunately be fixed with considerable certainty, thanks to Mr. Paley Baildon of London.

Mr. Baildon did many years of research on the family ancestry in England and his publications are referenced in the back of this book.

The recorded evidence of ancestry started around the ancient settlement of Baildon which is known to have existed as early as 550 A.D. It was in the Angle Kingdom of Deira and was also a place for Druid worship.

Mrs. Jessie VanZile Belden went to England in 1897 to do research on the Belden Ancestry and visited the settlement of Baildon. She published her findings with pictures and maps in 1898. Her book is also included in the References.

On the following pages are copies of some old maps that may help show you the early location of our ancestors. The Baildon Common was known to be the seat of the Baildon family from before the time of King John in the 13th Century. Baildon of Kippax is located in Lower Division of the Wapentake of Skyrack, West Riding of the County of Workshire, eight miles from Leeds.

It is believed by early family historians that our original ancestors were of the Scandinavian heritage. This may be evidenced by the names of our first four listed ancestors. Considerable research has been done in this area and a summary is included for you to form your own opinion.

As you can see on the maps, Leeds is located near York, in the northern part of England. This part of England was a bloody battleground from invaders for several centuries.

The invading armies of the Angles conquered it and set up the Angle Kingdom of Deira in 550 A.D. The land was again conquered and Egbert was set up as King of Wessex from 800 to 836 A.D. History also tells us that the Danes, under "Ivar the Boneless", after a bloody battle at York, on March 21, 867, became a tributary Kingdom of the Danes. The land was again conquered after this period and Athelstan was King until his death in 940. It was about this time that the Vikings of Scandinavia, the fabled Norsemen, swept down from the north and within a century conquered all of Northern England and Normandy in France. The Viking Empire broke up on the death of King Canute in 1035. The ancient Anglo-Saxon dynasty, the House of Cerdic, was restored in the person of Edward who, due to his saintliness, became called the "Confessor". Prior to his reign during his family's exile, he was brought up as a Norman, speaking French. He ruled England from 1042 to 1065. After his death, Harold became King.

At the time Harold became King, he knew that two fearful enemies wanted the crown, one from the north and one from the south.

The armies led by King Hardrada of Norway invaded northern England first. A great battle was fought at the Stamford Bridge, only eight miles north of York, on September 25, 1066. Thousands were killed along with King Hardrada. Harold was victorious, but only to discover that William of Normandy had landed his invasion army of over 100,000 men in southern England. The Battle of Hastings was fought on October 14, 1066 and King Harold was defeated and killed. This was known as the "Conquest" in English history.

ENGLAND
at the Time
of the Conquest

William obtained the leaders of his army by promising lands in England. In 1031 a list of over 300 names were documented from research, called the "Falaise Roll" by professors of the College of Falaise. This list contained the majority of those leaders granted land in England for supporting William the Conqueror. On this list was a name, Osmond from Normandy. No additional information can be found to determine if this man and our first listed ancestor are one and the same.

To defend his Norman frontiers and consolidate his Kingdom, William needed to know precisely the military strength and taxable capacity of England. In 1086 he directed a group of men to go throughout England to document this information. The great inquest was highly unpopular, and it led to violence. The English recognized its fiscal nature by naming it the "Domesday Survey Report".

This document is important to us in that it identifies Ulf and Essulf Fitz-Ulf as living and having large land holdings. Prior to the Domesday Report very few records were published and available for historical research. One page from the Domesday Report was reproduced and included for your interest. You will find on this page two different words, "Beldone" and "Beldune". They are used in identifying the location of lands in relation to the settlement of Baildon.

Even with the Domesday Report and the court records, information was still limited to provide a complete history of our ancestors. The information documented does not contain the good and heroic deeds our ancestors have done. The only recordings are for land transactions, continuous law suits, and criminal actions. We are fortunate, however, that our ancestors were always large land owners and had many pages of court actions to identify their approximate age and period of life.

Essulf Fitz-Ulf was an extensive land holder in West Riding. Court records tell us he was the grandson of Gamel, who had many manors in West Riding about the period in time of the Conquest. Gamel also had property at Flockton, Owram, near Halifax and Thornhill, all of which places we find Essulfs sons and grandsons in the 12th century.

Records also show that Gamel and Ulf held two manors in Hazlewood at the time or after the Conquest. Ulf succeeded Gamel as the Kings Thane at Kilnsey-in-Craven, and Ulf had a carucate of land at Birkin. A reference to the Hazlewood property in the Claims Court records tell us that this Gamel was the son of Osmund.

The first to call himself Baildon was Hugh, who flourished in the reigns of King Richard and John, and was probably born about 1155 to 1160.

He was believed to be the first born in Baildon and with his inheritance of the Baildon land holdings, he became known as Hugh de Baildon. His brother inherited the lands of Tonge and became known as Richard de Tonge.

He also seemed to have been a man of some substance, having property in Castley, Stainburn, and Bolton-in-Belland, in addition to what he held at Baildon. He was the principal land holder residing in the Manor of Baildon. He was also listed in the court records as the Sheriff of West Riding.

The first documented evidence of a Knight in the family was Sir Francis (21st generation from Osmund). He was knighted after the coronation of King James I, at Whitehall on July 23, 1603. The same coat of arms identified to him has been also identified to his father and before him. A replica of the family coat of arms was painted on the glass at Methley Hall in Yorkshire about 1593 according to some old records. Also Francis was the first ancestor found in the old court records as being referred to as "Sir" Francis.

Richard, son of Sir Francis, was the first immigrant to America. Records vary as to the date of actual immigration. One publication, referencing an old ship's log, states that a Richard Bayldon, of Bayldon Moor, together with his three sons, came on a visit to America landing at Providence, Rhode Island in 1631. This is incorrect in that Providence was established as a settlement some three years later. Also records indicate that Richard only had two sons, Samuel and John. Early records of Wethersfield do identify Samuel, John, and a "William" as being freemen in Wethersfield in 1641. William may have been a relative of Richard and came to America with him. Early records of Wethersfield do list Richard as being an early settler and a freeman between 1635 and 1640. The records also indicate a large land grant to Richard in 1641. Records are very scarce of Richard during his last years in England. He was not married at Kippax nor were any of his children baptised there. He is identified in several court records for land transactions and in his younger years was arrested as a gentleman highway-man near London for two robberies.

The possible reasons for Richards immigration to America can be speculated from several bits of historical information.

First, the matter of his inheritance--Richard was the second son in line to be heir to his father's estate. When Richard was eighteen, Gilbert was born (son of Francis II), making Richard third in line to become heir. In three years he would be twenty-one and eligible to inherit from his own mother's estate if anything were left. His mother's family had influence thru royalty and he could expect some opportunities even if he might not inherit much property.

But as his luck would have it, about this time King James I died, with all Richards hopes for royalty support thru his mother's family. It can be assumed that because of his loss of honor by arrest and little chance of inheritance, he immigrated to America.

WETHERSFIELD, THE FIRST SETTLEMENT IN CONNECTICUT, SPRING OF 1634

SOME OF THE EARLY SETTLERS
AND THE LOCATION OF THEIR HOMES BY 1640

Richard settled in Wethersfield, Conn. between 1636 and 1640. We have included a copy of an old map of Wethersfield to show you the location of Richard's land. Records list Richard as being granted some land from the township, and from King Charles I in 1641. Also some early land records show him purchasing some additional land. From Wethersfield, the first family migration was to New Hampshire, Mass. and Vermont in the middle 17th century period.

Additional information and stories of our ancestors are included in the Family Generation Section for your interest. Again we would like to make it clear that most of the early historical records only contain that information through court action and does not portray the greatness of our ancestors. We can however, judge their mandate by their large land holdings throughout their history.

We would enjoy to include for your interest, the stories of all the great battles our ancestors fought and of all the heroic deeds, but the information was not documented or available for our research.

It is assumed that in another twenty years, the next revision to this book will contain more information for generations (23) to (30).

COAT OF ARMS

The first use of a Coat of Arms was for identification on the battlefield. Later it became an honorary token awarded to those who may have served in some capacity to benefit the king, lord, or the country. Many deeds of valor were recorded with an heraldic symbol, the arrangement and coloration of the designs being the only one of its kind, exclusive to the bearer.

At the time Sir Frances was Knighted, an approved candidate presented himself at the church, confessed his sins, had absolution given him, heard mass, continued in meditation throughout the night, placed his sword on the alter the next morning, which was blessed and returned by the priest who gave him his benediction, was dressed in rich robes and his sword and spurs put on. He then appeared before the King who dubbed him Knight. The ceremony concluded with feasting and rejoicing.

The family coat-of-arms is reproduced on the cover of this book. The coat of arms is registered in the British Museum and attested by John Bernard Burk in his publication "General Armorn" and by Paley. Baildon in his books, "Baildon's of Baildon".

The Coat of Arms contain a sable fesse between three fleur-de-lis sable (black) on a silver shield. The fesse is symbolic of the military belt and girdle of honor worn in ancient times to hold the suit of armor in place. The fleur-de-lis is a French symbol perhaps selected to show loyalty, as the French were dominate in royalty during this period.

We do not know who designed the coat of arms or at what time in history. We do know the coat of arms was used by the family long before Sir Francis was knighted.

The illustration on this page is a reproduction of the Baildon Arms from the painted glass at Methley Hall, Yorkshire, executed in about 1593. The ribbon is colored crimson and the border yellow with the four studs left white.

It is known from early records that nearly all the sons of Essuf bore bars or fesses on their shields.

In the very early days the Baildon family were related to the Leeds family thru Essuf and the Leeds family used a single fluer-de-lis as a crest. Mr. Paley Baildon identified the signet rings of several ancestors before Sir Francis with illustrations. The signet on the rings was used in the early days to verify identity by an impression in the wax sealing the document. All of the rings illustrated a fluer-de-lis. This may also be an indication of ancestral migration from Normandy.

It is our belief, that the existing family coat-of-arms generated down through the family history to Sir Francis, and was not designed just prior to his Knighting in 1603.

THE FAMILY SURNAME HISTORY

The family surname came from a settlement in old Briton called Baildon. There are many stories as to how the settlement Baildon got its name. One story is that the highest hill in Baildon was used in early pagan worship. Boel or Bel, in the northern language signifies fire, a flame, or the sun: and Ton, a hill, hence Belton or Baildon, could have been a location for Belton fires used for sacrificial rites to Bael.

Early family historians in England conclude that the name Baildon is comprised of the old English words "bal", a prominence and "don" a hill, (from the Latin donnum), for the hill in Baildon is the highest in the area.

The first documented use of Baildon was in the Doomesday Survey Records in 1086. A page was reproduced from these records and is included in this book. The name "Beldune" identified on this page is used as a reference location for ownership of land.

During this period of time, most of the inhabitants of Briton were known only by their given names at birth. It is in these early records that we also began to find another name beside the given name which offered a better means of distinguishing one person from another.

Essulf (4th generation) used his fathers given name along with his own. In this simple way, more than 900 years ago, our ancestral surname was taking form.

It was about at this time, that the sons were also identified by their location of birth as we find for the two sons of Richard (5th generation). The early court records tells us that Richard split up his lands and gave the Tonge holdings to son Richard, and Baildon holdings to son Hugh. This is the first indication of the use of Baildon as a sir name.

The surname "deBaildon" was used by generations (6) through (14), when records indicate the "de" was left off. Sir Francis (21) signed his name "Bayldon".

Richard (22) used the spelling "Bayldon", "Beldon", and "Belding". An early map of Wethersfield shows him as "Rich Belden". Samuel (23) signed his name as "Beldon".

I cannot say whether or not Belden is exceptional in the variety of its spelling. The number is certainly remarkable, and I think a full list is worth recording. A great many are no doubt due to the carelessness or ignorance of the many recorders through history from the first recordings in the Doomsday Survey, parish clerks, ships documents, etc. to the present usage. Has anyone ever misspelled your name?

The dates in the following list show the earliest documented occurrence of each particular spelling. There is nothing earlier than Domesday Book, where the three spellings, Beldone, Beldun, and Beldune are found.

THE FAMILY TREE

If all our names were recorded on a single piece of paper, it would be large enough to cover your living room floor.

Therefore, we have condensed the format, eliminated the spouses, and listed the names on the following several pages.

This section is mainly included to help you find your name in the book. For you little ones, just look for your parents name and you will find a number near it which locates the page your name is recorded.

THE FAMILY GENERATIONS

(1) OSMUND, living in 1066.

Osmund is listed as the first ancestor because he is the earliest one to have record verification of lineage to the family. We do not know the dates of his birth or death but only that he was living during the Norman Invasion of England in 1066, by William the Conqueror. It is believed that Osmund was of Scandinavian heritage and for two reasons; first, because of his and his immediate descendants names, and second, because an Osmund was listed as one of Williams leaders from Normandy, a stronghold for Vikings from earlier conquests.

The proof of Osmund being with William the Conqueror is only based on one record, but with his large land holdings after the Conquest and Wm' giving land to his leaders in payment for their support, it is highly possible. Another fact to consider is that most of our early ancestors used a fleur-de-lis on their crest and signet rings. This is a symbol showing loyalty to the Normans and French. Early claims records verify that Osmund was a large land holder and the grand father of ULF.

(2) GAMEL, living in 1086.

Early clames records indicate, at the time of or soon after the Conquest, he was the owner of the Manor of Bradford with its six un-maned berewicks. He was also probably one of the un-maned Kings Thanes who held seven Manors in Leeds, since one subsequently known as the Manor of Northall, remained the property of Essulf's descendants for several centuries. He was also a holder of a manor in Horsforth.

(3) ULF, living in 1086.

Early claims records indicate Gamel and Ulf held two manors in Hazlewood at the time or soon after the Conquest. Ulf succeeded Gamel as the King's Thame at Kilnsey-in-Craven and had a carucate of land at Birkin.

(4) ESSULF FITZ-ULF, dead in 1159.

Essulf was an extensive land owner in the West Riding and probably died before 1159, leaving a large family of eight sons. There is some indication that he was married more than once, and his son John was probably the eldest of a second or even a third family. Essulf's name also indicates him to have been of Scandinavian descent. He also held the manor of Birkin, which subsequently became the principal seat of and gave a surname to Essulf's senior descendants. Gamel also had property at Flockton, Owram, near Halifax, and Thornhill, at which places we find Essulf's sons and grandsons in the 12th century.

(5) RICHARD FITZ-ESSULF, living in 1194.

Records show Richard left a widow, Maude, two sons, Richard and Hugh, and a daughter Maude. From Richard, son Richard, was given the land holdings in Tonge, and became known as Richard de Tongue. He gave son Hugh the land holdings in Baildon and he became known as Hugh de Baildon. For your interest, the following was taken from two court cases;

"1175-Richard, son of Essulf owed 40 s for a forest amercement.

1194-Richard, son of Richard was amerced 50 marks for participation in the massacre of Jews at York."

(6) HUGH de BAILDON, born about 1155 to 1160.
Married Margery de Poole.
Children: HUGH, SIMON, SERLO, ALAN, RICHARD.
Hugh was the sheriff of West Riding in 1195.
Alan, son of Hugh, was a Priest and Chaplain of Baildon about the year 1200.
"Serlo, son of Hugh, was a suspect of felony in 1219, he fled and was outlawed. His chattles, valued at 18s, 8d, being seized by the sheriff.
Serlo, son of Hugh, found crushed by a wheel in the mill at Baildon in 1231. The court ruled accidental death and ordered the wheel seized by the sheriff."

(7) SIMON de BAILDON, living in 1230.
Children: HUGH, WILLIAM, JOAN, WALTER,
ELEANOR.
Simon was born about 1180 to 1185.
"1231-Hugh, son of Simon, charged with rape by Ellen, daughter of William de Wilsindor. She did not prosecute, and, as she had no pledge except her faith, the court ordered her arrested."
Hugh, son of Simon, was probably illegitimate because his land was all transferred to his brother William while he was living.

(8) WILLIAM de BAILDON, LIVING IN 1265, died in 1279.
Married Agnes Blund. Children: WILLIAM,
MICHAEL, ROBERT.
Very little information other than the many land transactions in the courts. He was also known as William the Forester.

(9) WILLIAM de BAILDON II, living in 1275, dead in 1304. Children: HENRY, WILLIAM, JOHN. He was born about 1235.

"1293-William III, son of William II, found drowned in water of Eyr (Aire) William II, was also known as William of Provost.

1295-Alan deCatherston made a quit-claims in court to William II for all rights to lands in Baildon.

1297-William II was presented at the Tourn at Halifax for killing a man called Adam. No further particulars appear on the Rolls, and the charge appears to have been dropped"

(10) HENRY de BAILDON, living in 1281, dead in 1338. Married Alice de Hawksworth. Children: WILLIAM, ADAM, JOHN, WALTER. Many court actions for land transactions between 1299 and 1327. Henry was probably dead in 1328 and certainly was dead in 1338 when his widow, Alice was at Manor Court of Bingley ordered to be distrained for services in arrear.

(11) ADAM de BAILDON, living in 1308, killed at Siege of Catas in 1347. He was born about 1285. Children: JOHN, RICHARD, ROBERT.

"1323-Adam, son of Henry, appointed serjeant of the Manor of Otley by Archbishop William de Melton."

"1332-Adam, William and John, sons of Henry, were charged with beating and wounding Ralph de Mounchinsey and imprisoning him from Saturday till Wednesday, and had seized his aketons (leather jacks), hauberks (shirts of mail), gloves of plate (steel gauntlets), linen and woolen clothes, 100s in silver, and two horses.

1333-In Trinity Term the jury found Adam guilty. A warrent was issued for his arrest but he fled and was outlawed 1334-Adam evaded arrest for twelve months but finally surrendered to prison.
1347-Adam, son of Henry, "was killed at the Siege of Catias.

(12) JOHN de BAILDON, living in 1342, dead 1366. Children: WILLIAM, ELIZABETH, ROBERT, RICHARD, ADAM, MAUGER, JOHN.

John was probably born about 1320. John served as an attorney for many clients in the Court of the King's Bench at Westminister from 1340 to 1356.

"1356-Johns name appears on the Army Rolls.

1366, Sept. 14-John was killed.

1369, Jam. 26-At the Sheriff's Tourn at Otly, the jury found John Jackson feloniously killed John, son of Adam, on the Exaltation of Holy Cross."

(13) WILLIAM de BAILDON, living in 1362, dead in 1417. Married Margaret de Thorner and Isabel . Children: NICHOLAS, ALICE, HENRY, ISABEL. All information was land transactions in the courts around Baildon and Leeds.

(14) NICHOLAS de BAILDON, living in 1402, dead in 1437. Married Joan de Plumpton. Children: NICHOLAS, WILLIAM, THOMAS. Probably born about 1365 to 1370. Evedently he was under sixteen in 1378, the date of the Poll tax.

"1411-Alexander de Lound swore in court the Nicholas, son of William, on Monday, Nov. 16, at Baildon, feloniously killed and murdered his wife, Joan.

1414-Sir Robert de Plumpton and others swore in court that Nicholas, son of William, on Wednesday, April 14, feloniously killed Robert Wade of Baildon. The sheriff was ordered to arrest Nicholas on charges. He fled and was outlawed.

1415-Feb.7, Nicholas surrendered to the sheriff and received the Kings Pardon."

(15) NICHOLAS BAILDON, living in 1395, dead in 1452. Married Janet Fitz William. Children: RICHARD, ROBERT, JOHN.

Probably born in 1395.

"1421-Nicholas, son of Nicholas, appointed Collector of Lay Subsidies in West Riding."

He was active in the courts from 1418 to 1452. This is the first of a line to drop the "de" from his surname.

(16) ROBERT BAILDON, living in 1446, dead in 1446. Children: WALTER, ROBERT, THOMAS, ALICE, ELIZABETH, MARGARET.

The following was taken from a record of the marriage settlement between Robert, son of Nicholas and Walter Calverley on Jan. 10, 1446.

"Lands in Baildon to clear yearly value of f4, 13s, 4d. Were to be settled on Robert and Amice and the heirs of their bodies and other lands worth f1, 6s, 8d, yearly with special provisions for Amice's life if she survives Robert. Walter Calverley is to pay f26, 13s, 4d, on the day of the marriage, and the balance by instalments. If Amice dies within a year without issue, all moneys paid except f10, are to be repaid to Walter, and the unpaid instalments are to cease."

(17) WALTER BAILDON, living in 1473, dead in 1511. Married Gargvave.

Children: JOHN, ANNE, WILLIAM, RICHARD.

Walter was born about 1448. His life was recorded through the courts for various land transactions from 1473 to 1505. He was listed as a Squire in many recordings.

(18) JOHN BAILDON, living in 1487, dead in 1526.
 Married Haldenby and Mary Mauleverer, daughter of Sir Thomas Mauleverer, and widow of Edward Copley.
 Children: JOHN, ROBERT, THOMAS, EDITH, JENNETT, EDWARD, RICHARD.
 "In 1517, John, son of Walter, was admitted a member of the Guild of Corpus Cristi at York."

(19) ROBERT BAILDON, living in 1496, dead in 1570. Married Margaret Mirfield
 Children: EDWARD, WILLIAM, GEORGE.
 Robert was sent to the Kings Court as a young man in 1514. He was groom of the chambers to King Henry VIII in 1519. He also served King Henry VIII and Queen Catherine at the meeting with King Francis I of France, on the field of the Cloth of Gold at Guisnes in 1520.

(20) GEORGE BAILDON, born 1525, died 1588.
 Married Anne Hussey, died 1577.
 Children: FRANCIS, HILARY, RICHARD, ANN.
 George was also a large land holder and was listed in many land transactions. From the registry of Kippax, "1588- George Baildon, XXXij th May May Burried at Kippax.

(21) FRANCIS BAYLDON, born 1560, died 1622.
 Married Frances Johnson in 1583.
 Children: FRANCIS, ELLEN, DORTHY, ELIZABETH.
 Frances died in childbirth in 1587.
 Married Margaret Goodrick in 1588.
 Children: WILLIAM, RICHARD, CUTHBERT, MARTIN, HENRY, THOMAS, CLARE, MURIEL.
 Margaret died in childbirth in 1598.
 Married Isabelle Tyrwhit and Anne Coleby.

The following information was taken from the Registry of Kippax:

"1585-Ellen Baldon, xij Mar. baptized.
1587-Frances Baldon, xxj May buried.
1587-Elizabeth Baldon, xxj May baptized.
1589-William Baldon, iiij Jan. baptized.

1598-Margaret Baldon, xxx Sep. buried.
1598-Mereall Baldon, xxx Sep. baptized.
1612-Francis Baldon II esq, xj Mar. buried."

Francis was knighted after the coronation of Jame I, at Whitehall on July 23, 1603.

The marriage to Margaret was considered good for Francis as she brought with her a fine dowry and a direct lineage to the royal family. Her father was Richard Goodrick, sheriff of York in 1581.

Belden decendents are eligible for membership in the Magna Charter Societies thru Margaret.

Sir Francis signed his name as "Bayldon". Sir Francis died June 24, 1622 at Monkefrestone. His estate contained large acreage and manors at Kippax, Walton Head, Snaith, Methley, Baildon, The Mill at Baildon Bridge, 10 cottages and numerows smaller acreages around Leeds.

(22) RICHARD BAYLDON,

Baptized at Kippax, May 26, 1591. Died August 22, 1655, at Wethersfield, Conn. Richard was not married at Kippas, nor were any of his children baptized there. Data could not be found for the name of his wife or dates of his childrens birth.

Children: JAMUEL, born about 1628. JOHN, born about 1631.

The following records were found while he lived in England;

"1613, March 26, Richard, son of Sir Francis, took an oath of allegiance to King James I, and served in the campaign of Breda, Holland, under Sir George Blundell."

"1616, May 31, Richard Beldon of London gentleman, was indicted for two highway roberies. On February 16, 1616, at Woolwich, Co. Kent, he assaulted John Brent on the Kings Highway and took 30s in silver. Again on February 19, 1616, at Woldham, Co. Kent he assaulted Thomas Parker and took 49s in silver. Richard was pardoned for being young and having influential friends."

In 1626 and 1627, Richard was listed with his brothers in court records for several land transactions.

After 1627, nothing could be found in the records in England of Richard. One old ship's records lists a passenger, Richard Boldon, a merchant of Bayldon's Moor, and his three sons, in 1636, traveling to Providence R.I.

The third son William, may have been a relative of Richards because he is never mentioned in any records as, son of Richard. The date could also be wrong as Providence was not settled at this time.

In about 1636, Richard settled in Wethersfield, Conn. His name is on the official list of Wethersfield's settlers between 1636 and 1640.

He was granted land from the township in 1640 and some additional land in a grant from King Charles I, in 1641. His name is listed on the early map of Wethersfield, which is included in this book.

Richard's name is mentioned several times in the early records for various land transactions.

In the early days, they were troubled with losing their cattle to the Indians, so on the 16th day of March, 1646, Richard was appointed the Town Herder. The following was taken from the town records describing this appointment.

"Rich. Belden hath couenanted wth the Towne to kepe the Cowes and Oxen, to the number of twelve score, or 12 scor, or ten, at four and (twenty) pounds. If above 12 scor, then 2s for euery one aboue to number of (); and if ther be vnder 12 scor, the same sum of 24 pounds. And the Towne hath p'mised to pay the said Rich. in 4 equall paye; on (e) fourth in wheat; on 4th in pease; on fourth in barley; on fourth in Indean; sound, dry and well drest. And the said Rich. is to go out wth the Catell in the midle of Aprill, if the Towne se met, and the wether be fit. His time is to end at the 11th of Nouember. The wheat and barley and corne is to be payd to the said Rich, a week before Mickeltid; and the Indean when it is dry and marchantable, about a month after his time be out. And euery on shall bring in his Corne to the said Rich, in ay place in Wethersfield, wher he shall apoint wth in the Towne. The said

Rich. Desires twenty shillings of this pay, if it can be gotten."

Official records have listed Richard's last name spelling as Bayldon, Baildon, Beldin, Belding, and Belden. The official map of Weatherfield, Conn. lists him as Rich Belden. His son,
Samuel, signed his name as Belden.
Richard signed his name Bayldon.

In the spring of 1637, Pequod Indians massacred nine persons at Wethersfield.
Eighty men under Capt. John Mason, with seventy friendly Mohegans, marched against the Pequods. Surprising them in their fort, they killed over six hundred of them, and following them up vigorously, the tribe was entirely exterminated in one campaign.

Records show John in Major John Masons troop in 1658, and was much employed in the public affairs of Norwalk.

Old records of Hampshire Co., Book 1 page 194, gives the following information about Johns nephew, son of Samuel. "At court, March 26, 1678, Stephon Belden together with two other boys ordered fined and whipped for breaking into a neighbors cellar, playing cards, etc. Stephon was ordered to have seven lashes on naked body, well laid on."

John served in King Phillip's war in the Swamp Fight. In 1675, Phillip, Chief of the Wampanoags Indians, attacked Swanzey where eight settlers were killed. The colonists took up arms and war raged fiercely for more than a year, ending with the death of King Phillip. Thirteen towns and six hundred dwellings were burned. Six hundred men were killed in the field and scores of families fell under the tomahawk of the savages.

On September 16, 1696, Daniel Belden (nephew of John), with a son Nathaniel, and a daughter, Ester, were seized and carried away by the Indians at Deerfield. His wife was killed, as were three of his children.

Daniel was released in Canada in 1698 and returned to Deerfield. He then married Hapzibap . She was also killed by the Indians on Feb. 29, 1704.

RICHARD	married Anna Beltz

At the age of eighteen, Henry drifted to Vermillion County, Illinois. In March, 1851, he married Phebe Stanfield, daughter of Samuel and Jane Matthews Stanfield. He taught several terms of school near George town and later moved to Van Meter, Iowa, where he continued teaching for a time, then changed his occupation to farming.

He spent considerable time during the Civil War in training raw recruits, as he had some experience in the State militia in Connecticut. He was unable to enlist on account of an injury.

He was a bitter opponent of the Fugitive Slave Law and he engineered an underground railway that was located in the heavy timber on his farm. He gave food and shelter to the hunted frightened fugitives and sent them on their way to Canada and to freedom.

Many of the older people in those days could not read so they came to him to learn what was happening. In the winter the neighbors would gather around the fireplace and in the summer they would sit in the yard, listening to him read the news, which was sometimes joyful and sometimes sorrowful. One of the writers of this article well remembers when a man on horse-back rode up to the gate, bearing the message that Lincoln had been assassinated. She remembers the consternation of the people when they learned that their beloved leader had been taken away.

In the autumn of 1869, he and his family went to southeastern Kansas, in a covered wagon. They stopped for the winter in Cherokee, Kansas, there being schools there. In the spring of 1870, they went to Montgomery County, Kansas. The Osage Indians were being transferred to the then Indian Territory and the land they vacated in Kansas was open for settlement. Another childhood memory of my brother, Frank, and myself sitting on the roof of the house, watching the tribe go by. Each one had to be in Independence in person in order to receive his share of pay for the land. A rather funny incident occurred. We had planted what we thought was watermelon seed but which proved to be piemelons. The Indians took all the melons and when they discovered their mistake their laughter could be heard a long ways away.

He lived for some time in Dickinson County, Kansas, near Abilene, then moved to Ottawa County, near Tescott, where he died September 2nd, 1893, at the age of sixty-three.

He had been a member of the United Brethren Church for many years and usually had the office of Sunday School Superintendent. He was greatly interested in education, well read and was a broad-minded deep thinker. It was said in his obituary notice that he was fifty years ahead of his time.

Something happened at his death that might interest the members of the family. He had seemingly passed on and every one had left the room but his wife, Phebe. He opened his eyes and with a look of joy said, "It is all right." That was the end.

Phebe Belden, after the death of Henry Belden moved to Oklahoma and pioneered again. She was in her sixties at that time. She lived to be ninety years old and was blind for five years before her death. She lived like the earlier queens, surrounded by loyal subjects who gave her loving care. Her throne, however, was well earned and not inherited.

Henry Belden, soon after their marriage in 1851, decreed that Phebe should have a birthday party every year and she did have a birthday party every year for seventy years. The parties grew larger and larger as the years passed by and during her later years the children and grandchildren came from far and near to enjoy the one day in the year when they could all be together. Queen Phebe reigned supreme on these occasions.

One year on her birthday a grandson Paul was born. When he was old enough, he was privileged to sit at the head table with Queen Phebe at the party. One year, the other boys kidnapped him and locked him in the barn. However, not to be outdone, Queen Phebe would not allow the party to proceed without his safe return.

Fourteen children were born to Henry and Phebe Belden. Five of them died in childhood. One daughter was afflicted and died while a young woman. Four sons and four daughters lived to maturity.

In 1905 Father and George bought a section of railroad land in Wallace Co. and in 1906 Dad chartered a railroad car and we headed west, his folks came the next year, our family of eight, all but two were born in the old Soddy, and many many were the happy days spent there. All eight of our children graduated from the same grade or country school and all eight from the same high school, at Winona, in twenty five we built up on the railroad land, sending to Gordan Van Tine for a ready cut house. After Dad passed away, the children wanted me to move to town, but Dad and I had spent many hours planing what we would at retirement time, but in our planing no mention was ever made of leaving the home place, unless it became necessary. So, as Marjory has an affliction which prevents her holding a public job, tho she taught several very successful years teaching, when younger. As she never married she now lives with me, and of course as I grow older takes more responsibility, but so long as we can keep things up reasonably, we expect to stay put. This winter we have one of my Grandsons (katies second boy) staying with us and going to Tec. school at Goodland, Kan. He drives and stays here, its quite a drive, little over thirty miles, but law me, don't lots of city people go farther than that ?

Married John Klutzenbaker.

Children: of Oscar and Allie Hall

OSCAR

It can be said of her that she loved the world and the people in it. Her friends were legion, in all walks of life, some very rich and some very poor, it mattered not to her. She looked up to no one and down on no one.

She was a nurse by profession and loved it. She was always willing to lend a helping hand and she made life a little easier for a multitude of people.

Hers was a long and colorful career. She saw the agony of four wars. She watched her father drill the boys for the Civil War. She heard the news that Lincoln had been shot. She watched another generation of boys leave for the Spanish War, and another for World War I. She watched still another generation of boys being drilled in front of her home in Los Angeles for World War II.

She endured the hardships of pioneer life in three different states, Iowa, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

She traveled in a covered wagon, behind an ox team. She rode down a mountain in a stage coach behind a drunken driver. She traveled in buggies, two-wheeled carts, trains, boats, busses, street cars, streamlined automobiles and an airplane.

(30) *ALMIRA (contd)

The cornbelt of Iowa was her birth place. She lived in Canada, where she watched the aurora borealis (northern lights). She lived so near Niagara Falls she could listen to the roar. She lived in the wooded hills of western New York, where they made the maple sugar.

She lived on a mountain top in Arkansas, where the scenery is so gorgeous. She lived in a booming oil town in Oklahoma, where she mingled with the Indians and learned a part of their language. She lived on the prairies of Kansas, in a mining town, and in the mountains of Colorado, where the beauty takes one's breath away. She lived in California, where the roses bloom the year round. She watched the mighty battle ships on the Pacific Ocean.

Her last ten years were entirely devoted to the Townsend pension activities. No one knew better than she hardships endured by the early pioneers. She watched the elderly people, the builders of our nation, obliged to live with relatives where they were not wanted and others being regimented into the poor houses, a heartbreaking tragedy in every case. Then she watched the pension bring new life, hope, self-respect and sheer joy to these same people. She also watched the Townsend social activities bring cheer and happiness to thousands of the lonely. The old age pension - no other tax money brings such rich returns when needed most. Truly, Christianity in action.

She made a life long study of the Bible and she believed in its promises. She knew it by heart and she could give you chapter and verse for anything you wanted to know.

On August 14th, 1947, she received a call from the Master she loved so well and went on, no doubt, to greater adventures, activities, and service.

It was May 1935, school just out, Ralph, the children and I moved to the high pastures to build fence for a cattle and sheep man. We were new to the mountains of Colorado, having just come here the year before from Kansas. When we were within five miles of where we were going to, the snow was too deep to go any further. So we unloaded into an old cabin, where Mary Rose, Nina Bell, and I stayed while Ralph and Samuel went back for another load. Later on we went on up and set up a tent. Didn't we come from pioneer stock?

Rex Belden was a pioneer of the early 1900's. At the age of eleven, with his teenage brother, Ralph, they drove a covered wagon from Fowler, Colorado, to Lebanon, Kansas, in one of western Kansas' notorious blizzards, in temperatures near 37° below zero. Some days they made only six miles. It took thirty days to make the trip, approximately four hundred miles.

Rex is a farmer and inventor. In 1942 he patented a grade meter, a device when mounted on a tractor that makes it possible to make contour rows to move water to any desired area at any desired speed or walking the runoff from the field.

A patent is now pending on a twin contour king lister which plants two rows in each wide furrow. After six years of experimental work by Rex and Katie it is now ready for the market.

"Building the soil and making two blades grow where one grew before is a very rewarding way of life. Good luck to you."

THE STANFIELD LINE

John Stanfield, grandfather of Phebe Belden, claimed to be of royal blood, ancestors came over in the Mayflower, belonged to the Masonic Order and lived in Green County, Tennessee. He married Dillon.

He was drafted in the War of 1812, but, on account of his age, his son, Samuel, acted as a substitute. Samuel was given a land warrant in payment for his services and he secured a homestead near Adel, Dallas County, Iowa. He was of Quaker faith, but was obliged to leave the church on account of having served in the army. The church insisted that he destroy the land warrant but he refused to do so.

THE HUNGERFORD LINE

The Hungerford family is of English origin.

Mary Hungerford married Hugh Smithson, the first duke of Northumberland and a descendant of King Henry the Seventh.

James Smithson, their son, was the founder of the Smithsonian Institution, which has inspired and guided the scientific development of this continent for the past hundred years. He willed his entire fortune, five hundred and forty-two thousand dollars for this work, for which America owes him a debt of eternal gratitude. He died in Genoa, Italy in 1829.

In England, there are two almshouses existing at the present time, which were founded and endowed by the Hungerfords before 1450.

On the tombstone of Capt. John Hungerford, who died in 1787 was buried at Plainville, Hartford County, Conn., is the following verse:

"Behold and see as you pass by,
As you are now so once was I,
As I am now so you must be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

REFERENCE MATERIAL

In preparing this history, much effort has been made to furnish an accurate record, but absolute accuracy is not claimed. Sources of data seemingly authentic sometimes differ.

It has been our purpose to collect and preserve such items of interest as we wish our grandparents had done for us a hundred years ago.

We trust this is but the beginning and that some members of the Belden family will continue the work and correct any mistakes we have made.

The best source for information on any family ancestry is the Genealogy Library in the Library of Congress, Washington D.C. Fortunately, a few days were available to do research in this great library for this book. Some time was also spent in the Genealogy Department of the California State Library located at the San Francisco University in San Francisco, Calif.

The best source of information on the Belden family ancestry in England is a collection of three large volumes titled "Bailldon's of Bailldon--A History of a Yorkshire Manor and Family" by Paley Bailldon, F.S.A. London, England".

The following is a list of some of the sources of information used in the preparation of this book.
